Subscriptions for Fred Alderson

Editor of the Miner
Dear Sir:

At a meeting of the fellow employees of the late Fred Alderson, fire boss at the Hosmer mines, Hosmer B. C. who lost his life in rescuing others after the explosion at the Bellevue mine, the night of December 9th. 1910 trustees were appointed to receive money to be collected for a fund, for the widow and children.

A request has been sent to the inhabitants of Coleman desiring that we should co-operate with them in collecting for that fund. And I venture to say our citizens will avail themselves of the privilege of contributing to the relief of the family of the noble Hero, who laid down his life while trying to save his fellow men.

Mr. Buchanan of the Eastern Township Bank has kindly consented to receive all subscriptions and transmit them and I feel confident you will acknowledge through your columns the names of the subscribers, which I predict will be large judging by the response made in the Frenchie disaster.

Yours Truly
Alex. Cameron

Card of Thanks

THE WEST CANADIAN COLLIERIES, LIMITED, whose mine at Bellevue was visited by such a terrible calamity on the night of December 9th last, hereby wish to extend their deepest gratitude to, and to express their highest admiration for, the heroic conduct and magnificent efforts of the many brave men who assisted in rescue work on that dire occasion. Above all they wish to make mention of the gallantry and fearlessness of Fred Alderson, of Hosmer, who laid down his life in that most noble of all causes the saving of human life.

The company also beg to thank the management of the various mines in the Pass, and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, for the manner in which they responded to the calls for assistance sent out.

Prospecting in the Flathead

The Flathead country lies twenty miles southwest of Coleman and is twelve miles southeast of Corbin B. C. The different coal claims are situated between twelve and forty miles southeast of Corbin.

Although this country is now almost inaccessible in winter it will not remain long as the B. C. government intend constructing a trunk wagon road to the boundary. All of this proposed road is now surveyed. It will connect with Belton, Montana. Belton is the proposed junction of the Northern Pacific railroad into Canada at this point.

The prospectors and mine owners who now hold valuable claims are W. A. Cate, and M. C. Conway.

These gentlemen have exposed seven seams.

Another valuable claim has been developed by W. Butts. Just out from Corbin about seven miles, Davis and Dambur has a number of men working on a splendid seam of steaming coal.

An analysis of the coal on Mr. Cate's gives the following results.

Water	1-5%
Voluble Combustible
Matter	20-3%
Fixed Carbon	63-8%
Ash	11-1%
Sulphur	1-4%

Coal has been made from fair samples and the percentage 77.5. It is both hard and firm. The coal has been declared good for steaming, domestic and metallurgical purposes.

The proposed railway will run through a natural townsite. This townsite which is on the property of W. A. Cate is only one quarter of a mile from the Flathead river.

The Flathead country is annually visited by hunters where splendid fish and game abound.

and it would help greatly to preserve the condition of your live stock in the Spring.

Every farmer knows that in the Spring of the year his barnyard is almost bottomless. The live stock mire down into the mud and almost float around—greatly to the detriment of their physical condition.

By building a Concrete feeding floor in the yard, this trouble is done away with.

A Feeding Floor of comparatively small area and built this Fall, would pay for itself next year. Concrete is the only material that can be used in this way at a moderate cost.

Will you ask for your copy of the book which we have prepared for you—"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete"? It's free—and, take our word for it, you'll find it one of the most interesting pieces of such literature you ever read. And profitable, too—because it will save you money.

Was Bothered With Worms

Harry Lauder reveals in a Scotch story he picked up in America about a temperance lecturer who used for illustration a glass of water, a glass of whisky, and a box of live worms. He would drop a worm into the water and show how it wriggled. Then, dropping it into the whisky, he would exclaim:—

"There! One convulsive shudder and it is all over."

"Hand on, there, master! Are you sure 'tis the liquor killed the poor worm?" a voice in the audience asked.

"Quite sure, my friend," replied the lecturer. "No doubt whatever."

"A weel, then, just pass over the whisky; I'm bothered w' worms."

Jones had lately taken to lecturing on the tectonic platform. "So you want to marry my daughter, sir? What are your principles? Are you temperate?" he asked of a candidate for the position of son-in-law. "Temperate!" was the reply. "Why, I am so strict that it gives me pain even to find my boots tight."

There are many who are subject to these distressing disturbances and to these there is no better preparation procurable as a means of relief.

KHARTOUM TRANSFORMED.

Kitchener Tells of Labor of Reconstructing Sudanese Metropolis.

Lord Kitchener presided at a recent sitting of the Town-Planning Conference in London, when a paper was read describing the splendid city which since the Khedive's power was smashed, has been raised on the ruins of old Khartoum, and also the labor of reconstructing Omdurman on modern lines. The paper, written by Mr. W. H. McLean (municipal engineer, Khartoum), was read in his absence, pointed out that the successful Omdurman scheme was in essence that provided for England by Mr. John Burns.

Lord Kitchener said he well remembered the difficulty of the problem how best to evolve, out of the ruins left by the Derwishes, a practical reconstruction of Khartoum on sanitary lines. First, careful consideration had to be given to the susceptibility of a naturally unsanitary foreign population, to whose conservative minds modern regulations were repugnant. No trace of that kind had, however, arisen, and the natives had agreed to the propositions, and there was no doubt that the reasonable regulations imposed meant increased length of life and increased prosperity.

The old Khartoum was an African pesthouse in which every tropical disease thrived and ran rampant. Last year there were only eleven cases of malaria in a population of 60,000. He did not think such results had been achieved in any other British dependency, and they were a proof of the thorough efficiency of the country.

Mr. McLean's paper mentioned that in 1890, the year after the culmination of the Nile campaign, the revenue for the whole of the Sudan was estimated at only $40,000, which showed a state of destitution for a country nearly as large as Europe. When this was compared with the present revenue of over $5,000,000, the progress made was apparent. Municipal steam tramways were running in Khartoum from the central to outside districts. It was anticipated that the city would ultimately extend to the west and to the south, and as this was Government land, it seemed assured that the extension would be made in accordance with the existing system of planning. A suburb might also be built at Burri to the east of the waterworks.

Tried Himself.

Orilla recently had the unusual spectacle of a magistrate trying a case against himself. Moreover, after hearing the evidence, the police magistrate dismissed the charge.

When court opened on Friday morning, the first case called was that against "George H. Clark, for allowing his dog to be at liberty without a muzzle." The charge was laid by Constable George Reeve, who was acting as day constable in the absence of Chief Reid, on his holidays. The police magistrate, who evidently had an easy conscience, pleaded not guilty. Three witnesses, Messrs. J. D. Knox, A. Clark and C. E. Hewitt, were called by Constable Reeve in support of his charge, but all three disavowed any knowledge as to whether or not Mr. Clark's dog had been wearing a muzzle on the day mentioned in the charge. His Worship thereupon dismissed the case, remarking that he had done his best to comply with the regulations as to muzzling, and if his dog had ever got absolutely unmuzzled, it was through accident. Messrs. Knox and Hewitt joyfully asked "What about witness fees?" The police magistrate retorted that he certainly was not going to pay them. And so ended a case unique in the annals of Orilla court records.

Majesty of the Law.

The Bruce police force is a "more-or-less" proportion. On Thursday morning recently we hadn't any, at noon we had three, and at night, when the three stalwarts marched up to the jail with a dinner can full of dainties for the prisoner. The same act was repeated the next morning at breakfast time and again at 10 a.m., when the prisoner was brought forth to his fate. Oh, these noble, fearless three, and a poor helpless, repentant drunk—Algonia Advocate.

Moss has been forced to make an impression upon hard steel by exploding a dynamite cartridge upon it.

A Fall Upwards

A story is told of a certain nobleman in Europe who had an eccentric humor, and also had sufficient money to indulge it. He had a villa that was his particular joy, and one evening, when he was entertaining a party of friends there, a young man indulged too freely. When the unfortunate fell asleep in the billiard room, two smiling attendants appeared and carried him to bed. The next morning the other guests were awakened by the host in person, and conducted to a peephole through which they saw the young man lying asleep on a white plastered floor. The ceiling was carpeted and the various articles of bedroom furniture were securely fastened to it and hanging downward. The young man awoke with a cry of terror grasped a chandelier that came up through the plastered floor. "They all do it," cried the host, with a laugh, "every man of them grabs that chandelier lest he should fall up to the ceiling."—Argonaut.

Stick To It!

Henry Me, appointed the governor-general of the Philippine Islands by President Roosevelt, has what he calls a one-rule course of conduct for a successful life. It reads like this: "If you make a good resolution—stick to it."

"If you have a good thought—stick to it."

"If you have a worthy friendship—stick to it."

"If you have an ambition—stick to it."

"If you have a hard task—stick to it."

"If you have a good book—stick to it."

"If you want more friends—stick to it."

"If you have anything to do—stick to it."

Which, when they are all summed, get into one small sentence: "Stick to it."

"Kind sir," said the weary wayfarer, "I have lost nearly everything—money, friends, self-respect. There is but one thing that has not deserted me. For manly," said the sympathetic listener, "here is a tanner. And that one thing is?" "My thirst," replied the weary traveller as he moved quickly away.

A Handsome Xmas Box

The great advantage of the purchase of Canadian Government Annuities for their children should appeal to all parents for the annual payments are so small that provision for their future may be made with little, if any, present sacrifice. For example, an Annuity of $100 payable at 60 may be secured for a boy who was 5 last birthday for an annual payment of only $4.75, or less than 10 cents a week, or for a total sum paid in of $261.25. In the event of the death of the child before he was 60, all the money that had been paid in with 3% compound interest would be refunded to his heirs. When the boy arrived at an age when he was earning for himself, he could carry his own contract to completion at a rate far below what he could have obtained at his then age.

It is the custom of many parents to spend on their children at Xmas time amounts which at other times of the year they feel they could not afford, and too frequently are the purchases made of no lasting or permanent benefit. Would it not be a better plan to start each child on the road to the purchase of a Canadian Government Annuity, and continue the "Box" every Xmas until he "was able to carry it for himself? The child if he lived would remember with gratitude Santa Claus visits.

The following extract from a letter received from the Manager of one of Canada's leading Insurance Companies shows what he thinks of the Annuities proposition.

"In discussing the system of Government Annuities with my friends from time to time I have always frankly stated that in my opinion the benefits offered for the rates charged are exceedingly liberal, and that I do not know of any institution which could possibly afford to offer terms so advantageous. If the general working population of Canada were able to realize the favourable basis on which Annuities could be secured from the Government, there would be very few among the thrifty and thoughtful who would not take advantage thereof."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Premier Sifton was presented with a $7,500 trip to Britain as a Xmas box.

The "old year" is "osterised."

Another year of prosperity in Coleman spells prosperity.

The appointment of a Medical Health Officer should not be delayed.

Father Christmas has laid his benevolent hands over the empire.

The triumph of the British Condition is a triumph for democracy.

The Miner takes this opportunity to express itself strongly on the question of a road to West Coleman. If a suitable and adequate road is not constructed around the bluff by December 1911 the very walls of the Council Chamber will shake with opposition. The citizens of Coleman demand a recognition of past promises.

West Coleman would have liked to have received a "Road to Coleman" in its Xmas stocking. But it has strong hopes for next year.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement committee are circulating literature of the Movement in the district. An address by Robert Speer entitled, "The World's Debt to the Missionary" has been sent out by the Institutional Church to a large number in Coleman. Speer is one of the ablest advocates of missions on the continent. The address is worth a careful reading.

LIFE IN SINGAPORE.

Cosmopolitan Medley of People on the Streets All Day Long.

In his article on Singapore, in Harper's Magazine, W. J. Aylward gives a picture of the varied life of the city. He says: "It was late in the afternoon when we reached the mouth of the river, the hour when everybody is anybody is out driving on the Esplanade, and every one who is not is seen. Along the broad, tree-shaded river, the fascinating street scenes, and one cannot but admire the genius of the people who made it possible in this little peninsula. It is a picture of the life of the whole island of Java to the Dutch, and where out generation or two ago Lord Cavenham found but a few pirate huts. "Across the road, with your back to the sea, you can easily imagine yourself at a large western hotel in England. On a broad smooth lawn which years of settlement, soaked to grow in alien soil, several hundred figures hard at soccer, cricket and rounders. Women in fluffly white and Paris hats sit languidly in wicker chairs, attended by native servants who keep guard over blond babies, while their mistresses watch the game. Through a dark, dark curtained doorway, a pocket edition of an English cathedral peers and rates its delicate spire against a flaming sky.

"Under the tree-shaded road, between the lawn and water, a parade of nations goes on—brown men, black men, yellow men and white. Hindoo, Malay, Japanese, and Kling, wheel of foot, with here and there in the motley, gradually coming to the snowy garb of the helmeted master mind. Next to him in importance are the Chinese men of wealth, the real merchant princes of Singapore, who give a fairly good idea of how a Chinese can rise if given a chance. On the seat of the most fashionable motor cart one goes by, behind a high-stepping, docketed corbel driven by a Beninese in livery, with a duplicate footman gravely enjoying his daily drive and chat with his son just home from Oxford.

"Following him, a sober equipage contains an English mother with three marriageable daughters; then a high-caste Hindoo in his carriage, which is richly furnished, his crinkly white frock and silver buttons setting off magnificently his dark, bearded face, crowned with beehives and ornaments of soft, white stuff in a carefully laid turban; a skittish horse, with an officer, yellow men and white. Hindoo, of the Sherwood Forests at the ribbons, his bull pup beside him and a little baboon in baroque liveries sitting astride; a shabby gharri with a Portuguese priest; a rickshaw with a Chinese woman in flowing blue, surrounded by a crowd of coolies; a barouche full of French girls, all passing through a chattering throng of Tamils in skirts, with little velvet, embroidered skullcaps on their heads; a turbaned Kling in a white shirt, a sword looking Japanese; a Manchurian lady in yellow, with a small, black, bobbed hair, after the manner of the 'pink of the East'; a master's wooden dog; a Beninese, Mohammedan, and Parsee."

High Power Microscope.
There has been exhibited before the Royal Society of London a form of microscope, the invention of Prof. Gordon, by means of which enormous magnification of tiny objects is obtained, by means of which the phenomena due to optical causes, says Harper's Weekly.
We may suppose that the enlarged image of an object is received from a microscope lens upon a ground-glass focusing screen, and that then another microscope is employed still further to enlarge the image so formed. This is, of course, quite feasible, but the grain of the glass would be magnified together with the image and would vitiate the result. Prof. Gordon uses a translucent screen of the finest possible texture, and he causes it to be kept in continual motion while the object is being viewed or photographed. By this means the grain of the screen is eliminated and the greatly magnified image of the object alone seen. Specimens magnified to the extent of ten thousand diameters were shown as proof of the efficacy of the method adopted.

Jenny Lind's Charm.
The anniversary of the death of Jenny Lind calls to mind a most lovable and charming personality. The Infirmary at Norwich, named after her, "The Jenny Lind Infirmary," was founded eight years ago by her. She was one of the sweetest singers that "ever peared upon the world a flood of harmony," and among other of the great men of her time who appreciated her at her right value was Mendelssohn, who said of her: "She is as great an artist as ever lived, and the greatest I have known." For a long time she lived in Kensington, at Clarendon Grove, in a pretty one-story cottage over which grew a fine magnolia. A church wote of her, after she had sung for some years in grand opera, that if she had not been the greatest singer in the world, she would have been the greatest actress."

Coleridge as Conversationalist.
Coleridge was a prodigious talker, and his fluency and eloquence in discussion soon brought his fellow-brothers to a standstill. Edward Irving once complained to a fellow guest at Mr. Coleridge's.
"Can you ever get a word in with Coleridge?"
"No," was the reply; "nor do I ever wish to."
There is a story of Coleridge's butchering his Latin in the Grove and subjecting him to a stream of eloquence. The letter was pressed for time, but waited till his patience became exhausted; then he cut off the butchering and fled, leaving Coleridge to discourse to it at leisure.

Lots of Farms After All.
The total area of England, Scotland, and Wales is 96,214,103 acres, exclusive of water, and the total under crop this year has been 28,144,000 acres (exclusive of 12,844,000 acres of moorland and heath land used for grazing).

The New Wizard of the Soo.

William Charles Franz of the Soo is a new name in Canada; and Franz at the Canadian Soo is a remarkable man. Recently a gathering of notable public men, both Canadian and English, did honor to Mr. Franz in a banquet at the city that was founded by Clergue this wizard; the city that now has 15,000 people, seven thousand of whom are employed in the canal works of the Lake Superior Corporation, financed by British capital.

Mr. Franz is the general manager of the works; which in their astonishing variety and range of output are among the marvels of modern Canada. The wizard of the Soo is a young man, looking for cheap water power, discovered the great pleasure of raw materials that makes the Soo the most remarkable industrial small city in Canada, was followed by a series of lapses and reorganizations; later by a great fire. But the Soo works of 1910 are greater even than those dreamed of in the days of Clergue.

Mr. Franz is the most powerful man in the Canadian Soo. When a youth he had a dog, a rooster and a gun; also a pocketful of rusty nails. He is now manager of a corporation whose property is valued at $35,000,000.

Roses For Colds.
The rose as a preventive of colds is a new idea demonstrated at the London Medical Exhibition, which opened at the Horticultural Hall recently. A Brighton firm of manufacturing chemists has taken the essence of the lovely dark-red rose called "Duke of Edinburgh," and combined it, in tablet form, with the antiseptic formalin, claiming that if these tablets are taken in the morning will ensure against catching cold for the rest of the day.

Wanted a Long Engagement.
"Do you believe in long engagements?" he called after she had consented to be his.
Yes, dear, she replied. "I have always thought that though a mistake for two people to rush into matrimony before they learned to really know each other."

"Well, then, how would you like the engagement to be?"
"Let me see. Would you think it was too long when I didn't marry until a week from next Thursday?"

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.
"She told me that he had written thirty-one sonnets extolling her charms."

"Gracious! Did she marry him?"
"Mercy, no! She married a corner street."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

For Asthma and Catarrh.—It is one of the chief recommendations of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that it can be used internally with as much success as it can externally. Sufferers from asthma and catarrh will find that the oil when used according to directions will give many a good night's rest, and relief from their ailments have found relief in the oil and have sent testimonials.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.
"It is awfully late," he remarked to his friend, after a long wait but at the club. "What will you say to your wife?" "Oh, I shan't say much, yet know," was the reply. "Good-morning, dear," or something of that sort. She'll say the rest."

It is a Liver Pill.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with were his origin in a disordered liver. It is a fact that the liver is particularly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits of living, in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Farnell's Vegetable Pills. Their operation through the bowels is effective, and the most delicate case can use them.

A swell baker who attended the church choir practices was asked by the preacher to sing a solo. Getting a little excited, he made a false start, then called out: "I've lost my give notice, I've lost my give notice." "Jimmie, you've left your dough in the bakehouse."
